

Topher Timzen has had a research emphasis on reverse engineering malware, incident response and exploitation development. While obtaining his bachelors at Southern Oregon University he instructed courses on malware analysis and memory forensics. Currently a Security Researcher at Intel Topher is leading a team focused on securing platform BIOS and has presented past research at DEF CON, BsidesPDX and SecTor. While not working on BIOS security efforts he gives Chandni a hard time in their research lab.